1972 Report

P.O. Gains,

Still in Red

The Star had a bad year in 1971 but we are happy to report that 1972 operations broke all records.

Total pages set a new high of 3,134, up 8.4 per cent over 1971, averaging 10.1 pages on 310 issues.

Paid circulation set an all-time record on pre-audit figures, but these can't be quoted until Audit Bureau of Circulations, Chicago, completes and releases the 1972 report—two or three months from now. The accuracy of our books may be judged, however, by the fact that not since the initial audit, for the last half of 1949, have we lost a single claimed subscription in the annual audit.

Business expands when the going is good. The staff has increased, so on Thursday we received two more office desks, and a second Olivetti calculator.

An odd fact about the calculator business is that the mechanical model we bought 10 or 15 years ago is now priced at one-half the original. Priced in between the old and new is the machine that business is turning to — the electronic calculator — and that's what I bought.

The office girls liked the color scheme, but what I zeroed in on at the supply house with, was "Do you have a service man who can keep this contraption going?"

A mechanical calculator may begin ailing without actually quitting—but anything electronic doesn't merely ail; it quits like a power failure.

The house assured me it had a service man who knows all about electronics. So I bought, and told the head bookkeeper to take the manual home with her and find out all about the machine's operation. Wordly wise of me—I have two sisters with electric ranges and they won't use the automatic timer because they won't read the manual, saying the manual is more confusing than the machine.

Isn't that just like a woman? But you know how men are—making snide remarks about people they can't get along with or without.

Your crusty editor has thrown many a dart at the anguished U.S. Postal Service. Now the Service wants its day in court. Here is the Washington press release—which I can late in accommodating, since it was set for release Jan. 4:

Postmaster General E. T. Klassen announced Thursday that postal revenues, fees and income for the first year of the U. S. Postal Service provided 84 per cent of total costs.

The increase is up from an average 80 per cent for the three-year period 1969-71. It meant that the Postal Service — in its first year of reorganization — required $1.3 billion in a direct Congressional appropriation, down 34.8 per cent from a high of $2.08 billion in 1971.

"We have pursued two major goals: Improve the quality and reliability of mail services and reduce costs," Mr. Klassen said in submitting the first annual report to the Board of Governors since the Postal Service was created July 1, 1971, with a mandate to be self-sustaining by 1984.

Revenues totaled $7.8 billion in Fiscal Year 1972, up 18.3 per cent from 1971 while operating expenses amounted to $9.5 billion, up 6.3 per cent.

Only second-class mail — generally used by newspapers, magazines and other publications — plus non-profit third-class mail and educational and library materials sent forth-class did not pay their own way, the annual report showed.

Lam: 'Close to conclusion'

S. Viets may accept terms

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government indicated today it is ready to accept a peace agreement, and Foreign Minister Tran Van Lam declared, "We are quite close to a conclusion."

Lam told newsmen that Saigon has no objections to the agreement that the United States and North Vietnam have agreed in principle but is seeking clarifications on technical annexes to the main document before Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho resume negotiations in Paris Tuesday.

Lam noted that President Nixon's emissary, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., is returning to Saigon for another meeting with President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Haig conferred with Thieu Tuesday and Wednesday, then moved on to Cambodia, Laos and Thailand to brief the governments there. He had been expected to return to Washington today, but the White House said he would return to Saigon.

The United States and North Vietnam announced Thursday that Kissinger and Tho will resume negotiations in Paris "for the purpose of completing the text of an agreement" to end more than a decade of war.

The wording of the joint announcement and Lam's statements indicated that tentative agreement had been reached on the major points, including a cease-fire and the return of prisoners.

But Lam said: "Unfortunately I cannot tell you the time and the date because we are still asking for some clarifications and some points are points of concern to our government."

Lam said a cease-fire "is not a main problem. We do not see any big obstacle in the acceptance of a cease-fire by the Republic of South Vietnam... The problem is that the conditions of the cease-fire are not yet very clear and we would like more clarifications about how the cease-fire is going to be implemented."

Lam said the United States and South Vietnam would not declare a unilateral cease-fire in South Vietnam tonight as South Vietnamese sources had reported earlier this week. But he left open the possibility of either a unilateral or bilateral cease-fire by Tet the celebration of the lunar new year on Feb. 3.

"I'm not a prophet so I don't want to guess about the date of a cease-fire," Lam said. "The only thing that I could say is that we are very close. I am neither optimistic nor pessimistic. The problem is we would like to have the maximum protection of our national interests. There are many points to be clarified in the agreement and we want those points to be explained."

NOT a streetcar named 'Desire' but a streetcar just the same

An old streetcar that was home to Dad and Velma Goss for more than 22 years is all that remains of Dad's Place, a former hamburger stand on the corner of Third and Elm St. The streetcar was part of the Texarkana Lines and was purchased by Dad Goss in Saratoga in 1947. Goss moved the streetcar to his place of business and made it his home. Dad's place is being razed to make room for a parking lot under the Urban Renewal program.

Free textbook bill sails through House and Senate

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The administration's bill to authorize free textbooks and instructional materials for the upper four grades of the public schools sailed through the House and Senate Thursday.

The two chambers passed identical measures and now each must consider the other's bill. The vote in the House was 88-5. In the Senate, there was 28-3 approval.

The bill is enabling legislation and not the $7.5 million appropriation Gov. Dale Bumpers seeks to pay for the program. Arkansas already provides free textbooks for the first eight grades of public schools, but not grades nine through 12.

Under the proposal, the state would provide the books on subjects required for graduation. It would provide such instructional materials as workbooks and audio-visual aids, but not such items as paper and pencil.

There were arguments in both houses that the state should provide the textbooks because many pupils could not now afford them.

"It will help those who need help," said Rep. Wayne Hampton of Stuttgart. Rep. W.H. Townsend of Little Rock said textbooks were an educational tool the state should provide.

Sen. J. F. "Mutt" Gibson of Dermott contended, however, that "if they want textbooks bad enough, they can make sacrifices to buy them. These free textbooks are not good for education. Education was meant to be competitive."

Gibson seemed angry and voiced strong opposition to the bill when Sen. Bob Douglas of Texarkana, sponsor of the measure in the Senate, refused to amend the bill to require the state to purchase textbooks for pupils in private schools as well as public schools.

"If we adopt this bill, we will be penalizing those children who have chosen to get an education in private schools," Gibson said. "We're living in a time of plenty and if we can afford to give free textbooks in the public schools, I think we can afford to give them to children in private schools."

Rep. Paul Van Dalsem of Perryville argued in the house that the money that would be required to support the program could better be spent on education in other areas. Bumpers has said that in addition to the initial $7.5 million investment, another $1.5 million would be needed annually to maintain the program.

Rep. Kenneth Camp, superintendent of schools at Brookland, said he had "serious reservations" about the educational priority Bumpers gave the textbook program because he, too, felt the money could be used to better advantage elsewhere. But Camp said he was supporting the bill.

Highway tax bill is introduced

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill to finance a highway construction program by increasing the gasoline tax by one cent per gallon and utilizing the state's portion of the federal revenue sharing funds was introduced Thursday by Rep. B. D. "Doug" Brandon of Little Rock.

Brandon offered the measure as an alternative to the $416 million bond issue and two cent gasoline tax increase proposed by the state Highway Commission.

Under Brandon's plan, the state would cease to collect the one cent additional gasoline tax if the state's revenue sharing funds fell below $10 million annually.

Brandon said this provision was an "escape clause." Brandon has estimated that his proposal would produce a road building program of $30 million annually.

Gov. Dale Bumpers has said that Brandon's plan has merit but he stopped short of endorsing the measure.

Rep. Charles Honey of Prescott introduced a bill to repeal the 1971 law that imposed a sales tax on certain repair services.

Reps. John Miller of Melbourne, Cecil Alexander of Heber Springs, L. L. Bryan of Russellville, Lloyd George of Danville and Vada Sheid of Mountain Home introduced a bill to use $10 million annually of the state's federal revenue sharing to improve county roads. The money would be matched on a 50-50 basis with county funds.

Hayes, Miller and Mrs. Sheid introduced a $1 million appropriation to construct a home for veterans.

Rep. Julian Streett of Camden introduced a bill to revise the organization of county government and lift the constitutional ceiling on county officials' salaries. The measure would increase the terms of the county officials to four years and set limits on the size of the Quorum Courts.

Rep. Samuel Darrell Hasley of Arkadelphia introduced a bill to grant public employees the right to bargain collectively. The measure would establish an Arkansas Employment Relations Board.

Reps. Cal Ledbetter of Little Rock and Steve Smith of Huntsville introduced a bill to establish a public protector office for the state.

Reps. Ray S. Smith Jr. of Hot Springs and Streett introduced a bill to appropriate $250,300 to build a fire training academy at the Southwest Technical Institute at East Camden.

Sen. Bill Walmsley of Batesville introduced a bill that would authorize the Arkansas

Jurors having second thoughts

FAIRFIELD, Calif. (AP) — The holdout juror who cast the final guilty vote says she still has doubts and thinks Juan Corona — convicted of murdering 25 men — deserves another trial. The jury foreman says the first ballot taken was 7 to 5 for acquittal.

Corona, a 38-year-old farm labor contractor, was found guilty Thursday of 25 counts of first-degree murder. The jury of 10 men and two women reached the verdict after 46 hours of deliberation stretched over eight days.

Corona was accused of killing 25 transient farm workers whose hacked and stabbed bodies were discovered in 1971 in makeshift orchard graves 100 miles northeast of San Francisco along the banks of the Feather River.

It was the biggest mass murder charge in the nation's history. The trial lasted 14 weeks.

Corona's attorney, Richard Hawk, immediately moved for a new trial, and a hearing on his motion was scheduled Jan. 29.

Judge Richard E. Patton delayed sentencing until after the hearing. Under California law, Corona could receive a maximum sentence of 25 consecutive life terms.

The 12 jurors each individually affirmed the guilty verdicts in a dramatic conclusion to the four-month trial. The separate reading, affirmation and recording of the 25 individual "guilty of murder of the first degree" verdicts stretched 28 minutes in the crowded, hushed courtroom.

But juror Naomi Underwood said in an interview at her home later that "I do feel Juan Corona deserves another trial."

"I have doubts yet," said Mrs. Underwood, a 61-year-old widow. "I don't think they had enough evidence. I still doubt I made the right decision."

Mrs. Underwood also said "the pressure was pretty great" on her in jury deliberations. The jury stood at 11 to 1 for conviction for two days before Mrs. Underwood changed her vote Thursday morning.

Jury foreman Ernest Phillips, 53, said the first ballot the jury took eight days ago was 7 to 5 for acquittal. He said about 15 secret ballots were taken before the guilty verdict was reached.

Corona sat silently through the monotonous repeating of the verdicts without an outward sign of emotion except to grip tightly the edge of the table before him.

Corona's wife, Gloria, and about 20 relatives, including his four small daughters, sat silently.

Mrs. Corona restrained tears until the 15th guilty verdict was read, and then sobbed quietly through the reading of the remaining verdicts. One of Corona's daughters was hospitalized after the session for treatment of shock.

AT&T signs $38 million pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The largest job-discrimination settlement in the nation's history, a $38-million pact providing lump-sum payments and promises of quick advancement, has been signed by the largest U.S. conglomerate, the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The agreement signed Thursday with the Department of Labor and the Equal Employment Opportunities Commission provides that AT&T and 24 of its operating companies make payments totaling $15 million to some 15,000 blacks, Spanish-surnamed employees and women.

The EEOC, intervening in the case before the Federal Communications Commission where AT&T was seeking a rate hike, had charged the giant organization with "pervasive and systematic" discrimination.

In addition to the $15 million, another $23 million will go into wage adjustments aimed at elevating women and minority men to equal job standings with whites.

The pact calls also for hiring more men as operators and clerks and more women in outside craft jobs.

The Labor Department termed the settlement dramatic and historic, one which "will probably constitute a model for civil-rights agreements for many years to come."

David K. Easlick, AT&T vice president, said "all parties should be pleased." The agreement notes that "the Bell companies deny that they have engaged in any discriminatory employment practices" but nonetheless want to resolve the charges originally brought by the EEOC in late 1970.

Joseph A. Beirne, president of the Communications Workers of America, characterized the settlement as hollow and said he had messaged President Nixon that it ignores and disrupts the union's contract relationship with the firm. He asked Nixon to block it.

The National Organization for Women said the $15-million back-pay provision was "chicken feed" compared to the $4 billion that NOW claims the Bell System owes its women employees in retroactivity. NOW said, however, that the measure was "substantial in light of previous settlements by other employers."

Private Employment Agency Board to establish requirements for the issuance of licenses to operate private employment agencies.

The bill would give the board the power to revoke suspend the license of an employment agency for "good and sufficient cause."

The measure also would require all employment agencies to "make full and open disclosure of the fee to be charged an applicant and of all the terms and conditions of employment before referral to the prospective employer."

Sen. Olen Hendrix of Prescott introduced a bill that would create an Environmental Preservation Commission. The commission would acquire, maintain and regulate "an Arkansas state system of natural areas."

Hempstead County Savings Bonds Chairman Syd McMath reported that sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in December 1972 were $17,334 for a total of $177,976 for 109.1 percent of the County's annual goal. This compares with $146,581 bought in 1971.

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 2,000 military reinforcements have been called in as a precautionary measure, but the administration says it doesn't expect violence from antiwar demonstrators during President Nixon's inauguration Saturday.

A spokesman for the Justice Department, which has been coordinating security activities for the agencies involved as well as the D.C. Police, said Thursday: "The threat of disorder and violence in 1969 was much greater than this one."

Nevertheless, riot-trained Marines from Camp Lejeune, N.C., and Army paratroopers and military police from Ft. Bragg, N.C., and Ft. Meade, Md., are moving into the Washington area to buttress some 8,000 police and National Guardsmen already assigned to street security.

"The only thing we're concerned about is the potential for violence," said the Justice Department spokesman. "We don't see any. We're taking people at their word that there will be only peaceful demonstrations."

Organizers of the largest antiwar demonstration, the "March Against Death," predict a crowd of up to 50,000 will assemble at the Lincoln Memorial and march to the Washington Monument grounds for a rally about noon Saturday, at the same time as Nixon's inauguration at Capitol Hill and parade to the White House. The routes do not cross.

Police say a maximum of 20,000 demonstrators will show up. The Justice Department spokesman said the number has been estimated at between 10,000 and 30,000 at security-planning meetings chaired by Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst during the past three weeks.

Police also estimate that about 3,000 members of four groups considered militant—Students for a Democratic Society, the Progressive Labor Party, the Youth International Party (Yippies) and the Vietnam Veterans Against the War—will show up. All plan separate demonstrations.

Some 20,000 soldiers and police, including experts known for their ability to spot pickpockets, con men and psychopaths, were on hand for Nixon's inaugural in 1969. It was the tightest security ever for the swearing-in of a president.

Senate confirms only two Nixon nominees

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only two of President Nixon's six new Cabinet choices will be ready to begin work with him when his second term starts Saturday.

The Senate Thursday confirmed without debate the nominations of Frederick B. Dent as secretary of Commerce and Claude S. Brinegar to head the Department of Transportation.

Action on the other four, however, will be held over until at least next week, largely because of the Democratic majority's displeasure at what it says is the Nixon administration's usurping of its constitutional powers.

The Democrats say they have not been consulted on Vietnam policy nor given explanations of Indochina actions, that Nixon has exceeded his authority in impounding appropriated funds, and that key officials have refused to appear before congressional committees.

In line with this, a resolution passed Thursday by the Senate Democratic caucus requires the President to claim in writing executive privilege for his Cab-net officers if he doesn't want them to appear before Congress.

According to the resolution to be followed by all committee majorities, committees will decide in the future whether executive privilege is justified and, if not, order the witness to answer under threat of a contempt citation.

Republican Leader Hugh Scott said, meanwhile, the delays on the nominations were "for the sake of politics and headlines."

"It is not going to reflect any credit on the Senate to begin the session by obstruction," he asserted.

The Senate is scheduled to vote Tuesday on Elliot L. Richardson as secretary of defense, and may also act next week on James T. Lynn as secretary of housing and urban development. Caspar W. Weinberger has been approved by the Finance Committee as secretary of health, education and welfare but some Democrats are threatening to delay a vote on him until February.

The sixth nominee, Peter J. Brennan, picked as the next secretary of labor, testified before the Labor Committee Thursday.

Members of the panel Thursday commended Brennan for his candor, although some noted his views might get him in difficulty with the administration.

The nominee stated his approval of higher minimum wages, and endorsed emergency national transportation strikes which contradicted the position taken by the administration last year.

Petition filed against JP, courts

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A petition was filed with U.S. District Court here Thursday seeking to have declared unconstitutional justice of the peace courts, mayors' courts and police courts.

The petition, filed by nine Arkansas residents, said the judges of these courts are paid from fines collected in the cases they hear, or are paid from a fund that is substantially supported by fines or are mayors or other officials who are partisan to maintaining a high level of fines to augment municipal revenues.

Last Nov. 14, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that it was a violation of a defendant's constitutional right to a fair trial to allow a mayor who is charged with raising municipal revenue to try his case.

Directions for flaming desserts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Desserts can be flamed without difficulty if you observe a few simple rules:

Use either a beverage with alcoholic strength of 20 per cent or more or sugar cubes soaked with flavoring extract just before you light them. Lemon, orange, rum or brandy extracts are good choices.

Liquor or liqueurs need not be warmed if the dessert itself is warm or hot. Pour the beverage over it and touch a lighted kitchen or fireplace match to the surface of the dessert immediately. Use a long-handled spoon to pour the flaming repeatedly from the serving plate over the dessert until the flames die, indicating that most of the alcohol has burned away.

Mrs. Nixon will wear silk, diamonds, pearls

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Nixon takes the oath of office Saturday, his wife will be at his side in a double-breasted green coachman coat with sable collar.

At the inaugural balls that night, Mrs. Nixon will wear a turquoise silk gown embroidered with very fine diamonds and pearls traced in silver threads.

Details of Mrs. Nixon's daytime and nighttime inaugural attire were released Wednesday by the White House.

Mrs. Nixon's inaugural-ball gown was designed especially for the occasion by Adele Simpson of New York, who has been the first lady's preferred designer for several years. It is princess-style in turquoise blue silk organza over turquoise and silver silk lame.

The dress for Mrs. Nixon's size-9 figure has a v-neckline and long sleeves. In addition to the jeweled embroidery, the neckline, sleeves and hem are outlined with sparkling jewels.

For the inaugural balls, Mrs. Nixon will also wear a white Emba jasmine mink jacket designed by Leo Ritter of Ritter Bros. and Ben Thylan. It is just above waist length with horizontal bands of mink skimming the body.

Mrs. Nixon's daytime costume will be the all-wool green coachman coat designed by Jeremy Wren of New York. She will wear a light all-wool crepe dress dyed to match the coat. The dress, with a fitted waist and soft gathers, has long sleeves and a soft rolled collar.

Mrs. Nixon's shoes for the daytime event will be dark brown brushed suede pumps with a flat bow designed by Beth Levine. She also will carry a matching brown suede bag by Morris Moscovitz and will wear dark brown kidskin gloves.

The first lady's shoes for the inaugural balls also were designed by Beth Levine and will match her dress. She will carry a small turquoise peau de soie bag and will wear white kid gloves.

Tricia Nixon Cox has chosen a strawberry silk satin gown for the inaugural ball and her sister, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, one of white satin.

Short evening dresses take precedence over long, simply because they can double for cocktail and very formal wear equally well. With these, the rightness of cultured pearls is more closely tied to the fabrics than to the necklines. Fluid crepes, silk jerseys and georgettes abound, all of them calling for the sensual softness of a necklace of cultured pearls.

The graduated matinee necklace of pearls is a perfect touch for the sailer dress with its deeper, V-neck—coming up big for spring.

Quit proposing and cool it for a while

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 70-year-old man and recently lost my wife after 49 years of a happy marriage. My loss was almost unbearable at first, but I faced reality and tried to live again.

My problem is this: I have proposed marriage to four widows, all near my age. They are receptive to a point, but all say there is no need for sex at our ages.

I am a healthy man and had a good sex life with my wife until she died, so why should I be expected to forget about sex now?

What should I tell these ladies when they turn me down on this important part of life? I say sex is healthy and normal and adds to a happy marriage. Please advise me. NAMELESS, PLEASE

DEAR NAMELESS: Perhaps these ladies have turned you down because you appear to be preoccupied with sex. You say you "recently" lost your wife. Yet you have already proposed to four widows. Cool it. Surely there must be an eligible widow who will see things your way. But don't rush her.

DEAR ABBY: I am a teen-aged girl who has hairy legs. I don't see anything wrong with it because it is natural. My mother and older sisters say it looks ugly and if I don't shave my legs I will be the butt of guys' jokes, and besides it is not considered good grooming for a girl to go around with hair on her legs.

I don't see why society should dictate whether I should have hair on my legs. I think this is strictly a matter of my own choice.

What do you think?

NATURALLY HAIRY

DEAR HAIRY: It's your hair, your legs and your choice. If you choose to keep the hair on your legs, you will soon find out to whom it matters, and to whom it matters not. Since you like the natural look, I suggest you keep it.

DEAR ABBY: God help me, Abby, but I made the biggest, most stupid mistake of my life. I tried to steal a piece of costume jewelry from a store and was caught red-handed by a detective posing as another shopper. The foolish thing is, I could have bought it as I had the money. I don't know what came over me.

I was booked, and now I have a criminal record which I am afraid will follow me for the rest of my life.

How will this affect my future? I am planning to get married soon. Should I tell my fiancé? Will this affect my voting? Will I ever be able to get a passport? Can I hold a civil service job? Will my record follow me into another state? Please tell me everything! I am so sorry for what I did. I wish I could wake up and find it was all a bad dream. HEARTSICK

DEAR HEARTSICK: Laws vary in different states. Talk to a lawyer and get the facts. I think you may be greatly relieved.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BROWNIE": Yes, give him another chance. Tell your husband you will meet him at the next Alcoholics Anonymous meeting, and afterwards you will talk about a reconciliation.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

POLLY'S POINTERS

50th Anniversary
Gold Money Tree

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I am answering Mrs. L. B. who wanted ideas for a 50th wedding anniversary party. My suggestion is to have a gold money tree. I was in a quandary about how to do this but came up with a very pretty one after talking to several people. I sprayed a large plastic rubber tree with gold paint that was not too shiny. After the first coat was dry another was applied. Repeated until it was all well covered with the gold. Silver money was wrapped in gold foil and attached to the tree with florist's tape (clear cellophane tape came loose).

I also sprayed some white candles I had on hand with the gold. Do not do this too far ahead as it does not hold for a long period. They, too, were sprayed several times. The plant was in a nice redwood bucket that I did not want to paint. It was covered with gold wrapping paper and a gold ribbon was tied around it with a big fancy bow in front. When our florist made the table centerpiece he dipped the edges of some of the flowers in gold paint and then inserted among the flowers a cute heart with "50" on it. Several people suggested I make my tree with real branches, but I could not find any sturdy enough to hold that much money and this plant had been given to me by a friend who was discarding it and it worked just fine.—H. G. R.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—What should one use to clean the new two-tone suede shoes, particularly saddle ox-fords?—BOBBIE

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is having to pay the same for the services of an apprentice beautician as for an experienced one. I do not expect the apprentice to be as fast and efficient, but it seems that if her price was a bit lower, she would book more appointments, be less bored, gain more experience and have more income.—SHIRLEY

DEAR POLLY — Cincinnati weather brings out the ingenuity of man. The morning may have been beautiful with a promise of showers but imagine one's dismay on finding the showers had turned to sleet. Once when a club meeting was over, the car locks were frozen and the windows had an opaque covering. There was no tool to scrape ice but one gal tried a plastic credit card which made a perfect scraper. This would never have occurred to the rest of us.—MRS. C. V.

In Sylvester's game the stakes are high

By BILL E. BURK
Memphis Press-Scimitar
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — At age 21, Christian Brothers College basketball player Dean Sylvester is playing a "game" that even the wildest bookies won't issue odds on.

In Sylvester's game, the stakes are high.

To win means to live.

To lose is to die.

Sylvester, a handsome, articulate senior, has Hodgkin's disease, a form of cancer. He has fought it since July 1971, but his situation has gradually worsened. He is now in stage four, considered the terminal stage.

Still, Sylvester refuses to forfeit the game. He speaks of his illness in the past tense: "I'm sure I'm the only basketball player in the country who has had cancer."

He was working in a meat packing plant in his home town of Muncie, Ind., two summers back. A nagging cough developed. He went to a doctor for a checkup. The next day they operated on him. Two days later he was a patient at Roswell Park Memorial Hospital in Buffalo, N.Y., a cancer research hospital.

"When my mother, who runs a nursing home, came in with the doctor's report, she told me I had Hodgkin's disease," Sylvester recalls. "Until that day, I had never heard those two words. I didn't know if it were something like a common cold or more serious."

"But if I made it through the night, I would give everything I had to beat it."

Dean Sylvester survived the night.

"This was one place where athletics really helped me," he recalls. "I decided to make a game out of it, but this time the stakes were different. Victory meant life. To lose meant death."

All games have rules, so Sylvester set down his own rules.

"One, I would never complain. Two, I would have a cheerful attitude at all times. Three, I would become a leader and would set an example for the other patients. Four, I would follow all doctors' orders willfully and explicitly."

He returned to CBC Aug. 31, 1971. He attended classes, ran, lifted weights and practiced basketball with his teammates, knowing all along he would have to return to Buffalo in 30 days to have his spleen removed.

The first shot was nauseating. It upset him mentally.

"My attitude was, is it worth it? I knew I was going to have to go through a bunch of stuff again. I asked the doctor if I decided not to take the treatments, how long would I have," said Sylvester. "He said from one to three months."

"I explained this to my parents. Then I told myself that even though it was painful, it wouldn't be fair to them (his parents) to give up."

"So I reverted to my old game plan. I took all 12 shots."

After the fourth shot, the lung tumor was gone. After the 12th return abruptly for more radiation. After he left, his team won but one of five.

A 3.6 student before his game for life began, Sylvester by studying while in the hospital, finished the school year with a 3.43. During final exams last spring, he detected a swollen lymph node under his arm. Another trip to Buffalo followed.

"I had surgery on my 21st birthday," he says. "Most people, when they turn 21, have different plans for the day. But me ... my first act as an adult was to sign for my own operation."

The node was removed. It was found to be malignant. A tumor in his lung was also discovered. Chemo-therapy treatments followed, including a painful set of 12 shots in six months of various strong drugs.

Dean Sylvester had reached stage four.

shot, he went on weekly maintenance shots. It was after the fourth of these that Sylvester, now back in CBC for the fall semester, noticed another node in the same place. Following Christmas, he returned to Buffalo—his 21st trip back—for still more treatments.

He returned to CBC and to the basketball court this week.

"My function for this team is to be a team leader," he said. "I talk in team meetings. We have a lot of freshmen on this team. I talk with them, tell them they are mature enough to play. My main purpose before each game is to get them up, to try to smile, be happy and emotional. I feel the places I can help are in morale and leadership."

When the Bucs practice, when Sylvester gets into the games, he always gives nothing less than 100 per cent.

"I go as long as I can," he said. "Then I come out and rest. When I feel rested, I go back in. I can tell I'm growing stronger. I visualize the day of total recovery. There are many stage four people around."

Not any playing college basketball.

Five years ago, had Sylvester contracted Hodgkin's disease, he would almost certainly have died in a couple of years. Five years from now, the doctors tell him, the disease will be conquered.

"I'm sort of like being in purgatory," he says of his position. "But I look at it this way. A lot of people were guinea pigs for them to get the knowledge to help me today. I'm now a guinea pig to help them learn even more."

UCLA riding all-time winning streak

By DAN BERGER

Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA's steamrolling Bruins, roaring toward college basketball's all-time winning streak, run into motivated San Francisco tonight at Pauley Pavilion. The visiting Dons hope to avoid becoming UCLA's 58th straight victim and at the same time, preserve their original record of 60 set in the mid 1960s.

Coach Bob Gaillard's Dons, 12-1, will play their normal game rather than the out-and-out stall which many teams have tried against the top-ranked Bruins.

"We're going down there to play our game. We're not going to play any games like holding the ball," said Gaillard, whose team prefers a fast-breaking offense.

Meanwhile, UCLA's starting sparkplug guard, 6-foot-1 Tommy Curtis, is ailing with the flu and is doubtful for the game. He'll be replaced by sure-handed Greg Lee, a regular a year ago but a less volatile type on the fast break.

The experts are baffled by this game. On one hand, both teams fast break, are quick and well conditioned.

However, both teams are excellent defensively. In fact, both coaches feel that defense is the key to victory.

San Francisco may use a rugged 1-3-1 zone in which three tall players—6-9 Byron "Snake" Jones, 6-9 Eric Fernsten and 6-10 Kevin Restani—play across the foul line. Guard Phil Smith, at 6-4, plays under the bucket with Mike Quick outside.

A Thoroughly Modern Question

RAP: We sent out Christmas cards as a married couple for the first time last year, and we came up against a problem: About a third of the old college gang have roommates, but not marriages. We don't like to address cards to just one when we know them both, but it could be embarrassing if we write Nancy Green and Dave Black, Apt. 12, Open Arms, (address and city), especially if the landlord didn't know they weren't married.

An etiquette expert suggested we address the cards to the person (or persons) whose name (or names) appear on the mail box: or to the one who rents the apartment—just to be on the safe side, if we don't know they've openly announced their trial marriage—but most of these friends live in different cities and we don't know all the details.

So what's the best way to solve this modern problem? —MR. AND MRS. (WITH FRIENDS WHO AREN'T) MR. AND MRS. WFWA:

How about addressing the envelope, "Dave and Nancy, care of Dave Black...etc." Or put just one name outside and add a "To Nancy and Dave" note on the card. —SUE MR. AND MRS. ETC.:

...And before next Christmas rolls around, how about asking Dave and Nancy how they want their envelopes addressed? That is, if they aren't married by then. —HELEN DEAR MADAM HELEN: You say the present national anthem doesn't relate very well to today's America. Does it occur to you that you and your hippie ideas could be out of date, or more accurately out of place? What has America done today in comparison to the America of Francis Scott Key, to make the star spangled banner yet wave? It is evident that your sympathies are with the flag burners.

I'll wager you received a number of letters from older, patriotic people who were shocked at your attitude that tradition should be "updated." —MR. A.C.G.

DEAR MR. G: Some several!!! But I also received this letter from another member of the older generation who is, I'm sure, just as patriotic as you are:

DEAR HELEN AND SUE: Probably neither of you remember that up to World War I, our assumed National Anthem was "My Country 'Tis of Thee." It had real meaning, and a tune people could carry, but a prominent patriotic society took exception to it because the Germans used the tune for a national song, "Heil dir im Siegerkranz." (It is also the music for the English people's "God Save the King.")

The present song was pushed through Congress (1931), but the music to Key's poem is from an old English drinking song.

(Perhaps this is the reason it doesn't fit the words very well.) Truly, I am a loyal and patriotic citizen and a former member of the organization mentioned. Many people agree with me that the "Star Spangled Banner" is not an anthem but a war song, written during the War of 1812. The last stanza has some value but no one has learned that. Also, only high sopranos can show off their range by soaring up to the high notes. The rest of us flounder.

Thanks, Helen, for daring to suggest a change. I wish someone would start a crusade. "America the Beautiful" is a real anthem with wonderful meaning. I'd even go back to "My Country 'Tis of Thee."

Hope my generation isn't horrified at me.

May I add that I always enjoy your column. It is sane and intelligent. —MRS. L.P.R. DEAR MRS. R.:

And we enjoyed your sane, intelligent letter. Thanks for writing. —HELEN AND SUE

(GOT A PROBLEM? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottle—or both, in care of this newspaper, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

STOKOWSKI'S ORCHESTRA DISBANDED NEW YORK (AP) — The American Symphony Orchestra, which was founded 10 years ago by conductor Leopold Stokowski, has suspended operation because of a lack of financial support.

Stokowski, 90, resigned as the orchestra's music director at the end of last season. The resignation was not announced until fall, in hopes that a way could be found to keep the orchestra going.

Stokowski bought a home in Britain last May and decided to concentrate on concerts and making recordings with the London Symphony Orchestra.

During the last three seasons, the American Symphony earned half its annual income from ticket sales. Contributions supplied the rest. This season, contributions were coming in so slowly that going ahead with a series of concerts seemed too large a risk to take.

CASEY'S 1948 TROPHY OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — "Looks like I'll have to take that big 50-pound trophy down," said Abe Rose after the Oakland A's beat the Cincinnati Reds in the first two games of the World Series.

The trophy was presented to Manager Casey Stengel of the Oakland Oaks after his team won the Pacific Coast League flag in 1948. Rose is a former Seattle "PCL" second baseman who has had a sporting goods store in Oakland for 40 years.

In 1949 Stengel managed the Yankees to their first of five straight American League pennants and as many World Series victories.

Inauguration prayers from 4 churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

As usual, the people offering the prayers at the launching of President Nixon's second term Saturday include a Protestant, a Roman Catholic, a Jew and an Eastern Orthodox churchman.

It is standard procedure to enlist this variegated spiritual spectrum to ask Divine blessings on the occasion, a part of the oft-cited "civil religion" that marks the American heritage.

Also reflecting that tradition, the president takes his oath of office on a Bible.

The religious element forms a steady thread throughout the inaugural ceremonies and, in a sense, sets the framework in which the rest of the ritual is carried out, expressing an urge for Divine sanction of it.

Through such subtle, uncodified symbols, the United States vests its president with its modified version of the ancient "Divine authority of kings," despite the nation's constitutional separation of state from church.

However, it is no established institution, no single church nor even a uniform faith that invokes God's guidance for the chief authority of the people but rather a mixed religious corps typifying the country's makeup.

It reflects that intangible "culture religion" that has figured indirectly but fundamentally in the nation's history from the beginning. In the Declaration of Independence, the rights asserted are based on the concept that they are "endowed by the Creator," that there was Divine cause for the founding of the nation.

The underlying religious premise is registered in the land's coins and currency, which bear the words, "In God we trust," in the Bible verses carved on public buildings, in the phrase "under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance.

It also runs like a refrain through the presidential inaugural ceremonies, in which the invocation this time is offered by a black clergyman, the Rev. E. V. Hill, pastor of Mount Zion Baptist Missionary Church in Los Angeles.

Others offering prayers are Rabbi Seamore Siegel of New York's Jewish Theological Seminary of America; Archbishop Iakovos, head of Greek Orthodoxy in America, and Terence Cardinal Cooke, Catholic archbishop of New York, who gives the closing benediction.

Some church scholars have been critical of the country's "civil religion," saying it often becomes a kind of idolatry, equating God with the "American way of life" and a cult of the flag.

"It is a watered-down article," says United Church theologian Stephen Rose of Stockbridge, Mass. "It is the sort of faith which purports to be Christian but really would choose Americanism and middle-class self-interest."

The Rev. Dr. Eric Lincoln of Union Theological Seminary says it has become a "third force" alongside Christianity and Judaism. "It is the semi-secular, unofficial characteristic religion that most Americans feel when they feel anything at all," he says.

POWER that sustains may be found thru regular church attendance

My Plight

Could it be the accident of birth that 'caved-in' her world? Does God discriminate between His people?

Could it be that her home located 'across-the-track' determines her plight??? An empty bowl, sure, but a compassionate heart. Almost despondent that's what she is. If you are one of those who has plenty and haven't yet given...

then, maybe you are partially responsible for the situation we find here. God may take from your store-house the 'just' amount. He said, inasmuch as you have done it to the least of one of these little ones, so have you done it to me. Her plight may be our responsibility. May we see that she has the opportunity to attend church regularly for we are, our brother's keeper.

Nixon is working as usual on peace

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pat Nixon said her husband was "working as usual" on peace, "praying as well as working."

Henry Kissinger said the Vietnam peace negotiations are going "all right."

And Kissinger's mother said the extra pounds her son has gained while in Washington are considerable, but how much is "a military secret."

Mrs. Nixon and the Kissingers were among the more notable VIPs at Thursday night's "salute to the states," the first in a series of concerts built around President Nixon's second inauguration. The salute honored the states and their governors.

Nixon, flying back from Florida, missed the show.

The guests—4,900 were invited—began arriving at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts an hour and a half before the 9 o'clock black-tie event. Long, black limousines stretched for blocks while cases of champagne were being carried into the lobbies.

Most of the women wore long dresses. Many wore furs on a mild winter night.

Kissinger arrived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kissinger of New York, and one of his frequent companions, Nancy McGinnis. Kissinger and his date whispered and laughed throughout the three-hour performance.

Well-wishers gathered around Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace who arrived in a wheelchair, accompanied by his wife, Cornelia, and his mother-in-law, Ruby Austin.

"Yes, I'm just hot to rattle," laughed Mrs. Austin when asked if she planned to attend an inaugural ball.

Just before show time Mrs. Nixon arrived, attired in a long pink brocade dress. She was accompanied by her younger daughter, Julie Eisenhower, who was decked out in emerald green velvet.

Because no one room could hold everyone, separate shows were held in the Kennedy Center's Concert Hall and Opera House—with performers switching places at intermission.

And, so the guests could get a glimpse of Mrs. Nixon and Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew, they switched places, too. That meant that they had to listen to the same jokes twice.

Of the 43 governors who accepted invitations, 34 showed. Massachusetts Gov. Francis Sargent joked that he was keeping a low profile—"Shhh, don't say where I'm from"—because his state was the only one that didn't throw its electoral votes to Nixon and Agnew.

Tickets, priced from $25 to $100 were sold out. Among the administration folk who bought them were John Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman of the White House hierarchy, secretary of State William P. Rogers, Cabinet appointee Anne Armstrong, escorted by newly appointed U.N. Ambassador-designate John Scali, and communications director Herb Klein.

Police searching for murder motive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police are searching for a motive for the execution-type slayings of seven persons, including five children, in an expensive home that is headquarters for a Muslim religious sect.

Milwaukee Bucks basketball star Kareem Abdul Jabbar, who bought the house and donated it to the Hanafi Muslims, said of the crime: "I can think of only crazy people, lunatics who would do it." Jabbar was known as Lew Alcindor when he starred at UCLA.

Jabbar, a member of the sect, was in Milwaukee when the slayings occurred about 4 p.m. Thursday in an area where many of Washington's wealthiest black families live. All the victims were black and ranged in age from infancy to 30 years, police said.

Police said they were looking for four black men seen by witnesses running from the rear door of the home, and police intelligence sources indicated as many as eight men may have participated in the killings.

A police spokesman said it was "definitely an execution."

Police said they were having trouble identifying the victims. Two women who were found shot in the head, but alive, inside the house were identified as Bibi Khaalis and Almira Khaalis, both about 20.

Bibi Khaalis was reported in critical condition and Almira Khaalis in fair condition. North Carolina civil-rights leader Dr. Reginald Hawkins, who was a Democratic candidate for governor in 1964 and 1968, was quoted as saying Bibi Khaalis was his daughter and that the three children originally reported found in a bathtub were hers.

Police said they could not confirm these identifications.

Police also declined to confirm the report that three children were drowned and refused to say how any of the victims were slain. They declined to comment on initial reports that the bodies were mutilated.

Police Lt. Joseph O'Brien said the killings were discovered about 4:30 p.m. when an occupant of the home arrived from a shopping tour.
